

Setting New Standards

Suna Interior Design provide interior services for property developers and the hospitality industry.

Suna Interior Design is a boutique interior design consultancy, conveniently located in South London and directed and owned by Helen Fewster and Rebecca Tucker for over 10 years.

Personable and highly committed to every detail of the design process, they have become highly sought-after designers, with a vast knowledge of creating polished penthouses, bespoke apartments, attractive public spaces, stunning show homes, and impressive marketing suites in central London and across the South.

This experience of creating both public and personal spaces in large scale developments has positioned them perfectly for the needs of hotels, bars, and restaurants and launched Suna Interior Design into hospitality design with increasing success.

Driven by their urban target markets, they are sensitive to creating design and style to fit modern needs and desires, putting great importance on researching each new locality. They work closely and collaboratively with their clients on their design ideas, providing innovative solutions, constantly pushing the boundaries of functional design. They create contemporary and lifestyle affirming spaces and pride themselves on high quality finishes and their cultivation of long term client relationships.

"We embrace the ideals of strong design ensuring every interior delivers unique results. Each project we work on is very much a product of our innovation, creativity and collaboration with the client," explains Tucker.

The small and enthusiastically committed team ensures that every part of the project receives the same high level of attention, from the very first point of contact, to the final delivery of the design. Their extensive experience with volume project management and design schemes, working alongside architects and contractors, makes them agile and adept designers.

"Design is a passion and this enthusiasm should be conveyed right from the source, not via an account handler or a detached third party," adds Fewster. "I want our clients to feel that we are facilitators for their dreams and expectations."

Having built up an enviable reputation, they have enjoyed being invited to speak at conferences and are regularly asked to provide their input and opinion to leading interior magazines and panels. Their work has seen them win many awards and this year is proving to be the most successful year to date. To mark the business growth and success in these changing times, Suna Interior Design has rebranded their company logo. This new logo creates a strong mark of distinction relevant to their design ethic and business maturity. <
